The Estate Planning attorneys at Stoel Rives LLP understand that estate planning is much more than preparing legal documents. While we offer sophisticated estate planning advice, we also help clients and their families define their values, end-of-life preferences and choices for treatment options so that their wishes will be honored.

Our attorneys understand that an effective estate plan addresses the challenges of family dynamics and changing tax laws in an efficient and easy-to-understand way. Working as a team with our clients and trust and probate administrators, we also provide the guidance and assurance needed to allow trustees and personal representatives to perform their duties with confidence. The lives and interests of our clients are diverse, and we work with each client to provide tailored solutions that bring together divergent interests, minimize tax liability and reduce opportunities for conflict.

We provide counsel on:

- End-of-life planning
- Estate planning
- Estate and trust administration
- Personal income, business, gift and estate tax planning
- Charitable giving and philanthropic planning
- Fiduciary litigation, including will and trust contests and claim disputes
